

Birchington CE Primary School Courageous Advocacy

The Christian gospel says that every person has a unique task to do, with God and for God whether or not they know it! At Birchington, it's really important that our school, local, national and global community see Christianity in action! It's all very well saying the words but we need to let this shine out in practice!

As members of a Church of England School and as members of our Birchington family we are all aiming to be courageous advocates. We work hard to learn and develop our ability to empathise, understand, take action and respond to causes and be advocates for positive change.

Skills such as courage and resilience are built while engaging in social issues within a framework of hope and aspiration.

We create the confidence in our children so they know however young they are, they are able to make real change. It's their world, so it's important that they have a loud voice!

During our recent Courageous Advocacy Week, each class had the opportunity to choose something that made them cross and to research that issue in more detail. This resulted in the classes exploring ways in which they can make a change or a difference in the world.

Displays were put up around the school and children had the chance to design their own courageous advocacy flag.
